

A Joint Communication from ISLP and ISLP-UK

Dear valued donors, volunteers and legal colleagues:

ISLP and ISLP-UK have enjoyed nearly a decade of joint activities supporting governments and civil society organizations to meet their international development goals in a sustainable way through pro bono legal support. This affiliation has seen the successful provision of expert pro bono legal assistance in more than 80 countries.

In this fast-changing and dynamic world, we have decided to best serve our client partners by reverting to our original configuration of two independent entities – in the US and UK, managed by their respective boards.

Henceforth, ISLP-UK, based in London, will return to its founding name International Lawyers Project. ISLP, based in New York, continues as a non-profit organization since its origin nearly 20 years ago. The commitment of both organizations to deliver high quality pro-bono legal assistance where it is needed most remains unchanged.

Details about International Lawyers Project can be found at internationallawyersproject.org. ISLP's website remains islp.org.
